YOUR INVITATION

The International Federation of Denturists (IFD) and the National Denturist Association (NDA) warmly invite you to participate in the 6th World Symposium on Denturism. The Symposium will be held in the exciting city of Las Vegas, Nevada, October 13-16, 2009. The 6th World Symposium will be an amazing opportunity to meet with Denturist colleagues from all parts of the world, to experience high quality and innovative continuing education, and to enjoy the unique experience of Las Vegas.

The IFD and the NDA are honored to host the continuation of the series of Symposia held in 1998 (Canada), 1999 (Australia), 2002 (Las Vegas), 2004 (Canada), and 2007 (United Kingdom). We are confident that all attendees, whether Denturists, Interns, clinic staff, Dental Technicians, or others interested in the profession of Denturism, will find this to be a worthwhile opportunity and a real memory-maker!

We look forward to seeing many of you in Las Vegas!

TIME	TOPIC/SPEAKER	OBJECTIVES	CREDIT HOURS/ CATEGORY
9:30 am - 12 noon	How to become the preferred provider to the Baby Boomer Generation - Part I Speaker: E. Michael Vakalis DD LD George Brown College Toronto Sponsored by Candulor	This workshop style presentation will explore several simple techniques to help you become the preferred provider of high end precision dentures to the baby boomers generation. Participants will learn: a. why after 40 years of legislative Denturism, we Denturists provide only a fraction of the dentures made to the public and what we can do about it; b. how simple modifications to your practice can assist you to become a preferred provide to the baby boom generation; c. why providing high end precision dentures is good for the soul and the pocket book. .	1.5 Cat 2
1:00 pm - 2:30 pm	Treatment options utilizing dental implants for the completely edentulous patient: It's all about patient satisfaction - what patients want, and how we can predictably provide it. Speaker: Steven Bongard DDS Toronto, Ontario Sponsored by Nobel/Biocare	Upon completion of this course the participant should be familiar with the following concepts: -advantages and disadvantages of the different treatment options available -the importance of soft tissue health in long-term implant treatment success -"fixed" verses "removable" prosthetic solutions, and the huge difference this represents to our patients -how to utilize new technologies that allow us to remarkably improve the lives of our patients in just one day!	1.5 Cat 1
1:00 pm - 2:30 pm	Precision Dentures Utilizing Candulor Teeth Speaker: E. Michael Vakalis DD LD Denturist Program George Brown College Toronto	This Introduction Presentation is designed to familiarize the participants with the Candulor full-denture system The Candulor Denture system is unique in itself, because it is designed to promote the stabilization and hold of the dentures as much as possible by utilizing a combination of physical, biological and prosthetic forces. The main objectives of the Candulor system is to preserve the underlined supporting tissues by producing dentures that are as stable as possible under function, as well as to produce a denture with aesthetics that are as true to life as possible. Participants will be introduced to the PhysioStar NFC, a life-like 3-dimensional tooth made from a new nano-filled composite material (NFC). In addition participants will review several actual cases that utilise Candulor teeth, but different articulators, face bows and denture systems.	1.5 Cat 1

	Sponsored by Candulor

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

TIME	TOPIC/SPEAKER	OBJECTIVES	CREDIT HOURS
9:30 am - 12 noon	Link Between Oral Disease and General Health Speaker: Howard C. Tenenbaum, DDS, Dip. Perio., PhD, FRCD(C) Mount Sinai Hospital; University of Toronto; TelAviv University; University of Manitoba Sponsored by the Dental Officer of Canada	There is a groundswell of interest relating to the apparent associations between chronic periodontal diseases (e.g. periodontitis) and systemic diseases. The relationships apparently range from periodontitis being considered as a risk factor or risk indicator, to an exacerbating factor for a variety of systemic conditions. Dr. Tenenbaum will review these areas in order to shed light on what is actually known versus what the popular press thinks is known.	2.0 Cat 1
1:00 pm - 2:30 pm	Bio-Logical Considerations in Removable Prosthetics Speaker: Jack Edwards BA, CDT, MDT, TF Fullerton, California Sponsored by Vident	This lecture will present the latest techniques and theories on denture occlusion and articulation. Specific emphasis will be placed on esthetics, mould selection, characterization and the fundamentals of functional balanced occlusion. The lecture material is ideal for denture, implant or crown and bridge technicians as well as dentists who want to learn the latest techniques for esthetic denture set-ups. Jack will tell his secrets of his successful inconspicuous dentures.	1.5 Cat 1
1:00 pm - 2:30 pm	Part One - Reproducing Centric Jaw Relation (CJR) in the Edentulous Patient: A contemporary review. Part Two - Occlusion Vertical	Part One explores the controversial, yet generally agreed position for recording the antero-posterior position of the mandible relative to the maxilla; that of the retruded contact position (RCP) (Wilson PHR, Banerjee A. BDJ 2004; 196, 395-402). There are many factors in relation to this which will be explored during the presentation. Occlusal vertical dimension	1.5 Cat 1

	Dimension (OVD) Variances Speaker: John Egan MHealSc PGDipCDTech Rehabilitation University of Otago, New Zealand	(OVD) increases electromyographic activity of the elevator muscles when clenching. This is short lived, as if readings are taken two to three months later they will have returned to base line values. (Lindauer SJ, Gay T, Rendell J. J Dent Res 1993; 72: 51-55). Part Two will look at the variances of occlusal vertical dimension.
3:00 pm - 4:00 pm	Pharmacology Speaker: Keith Milton DDS Denturist Program Vancouver Community College	This presentation will bring to light an awareness of the principals of drug therapy. The information should aid the professional to handle the often complicated situations of individuals taking medications in order to stay healthy. The presentation will look at demographics, patient's varying reactions, concerns and mechanisms of actions of many common drugs. The information promises to be useful in many areas of the participants life.	1.0 Cat 1
